

In a year like no other, your local news brand has been there with you.

All 42 million of you.

A year ago, we said we'd be there for you. And together we have been through some of the toughest times. As we emerge, we continue to be by your side.

You are not alone.

In fact, over the last 12 months local news brands grew by 3 million readers to a total readership of 42 million people a month, as more and more of you sought out your local newspaper – in print and online – for the information, advice and analysis you knew you could trust.

We remain committed to bringing our communities together, publicising the good causes and covering the issues that matter most to you.

Thank you for putting your trust in local media.
